

Basis

Where there is water, there is life. You're a philosopher and require a lot of time in solitude. Your dream space is quiet, cozy and spa-like. You are one of the rare ones who can soak up the smell of the wet pavement and marvel at the shape of the clouds. You have the ability to dive deep into depths of life. It is in these moments that you access your innate wisdom. Those around you see you as a teacher and a mentor.

YOUR ESSENCE: Water

Dreamer, deep, child-like, playful, poet, self-contained, accepting, lover of flow and freedom

CURTAINS

Deep blue or black velvet curtains are very calming to the Water person.

The curved, wavy shapes and deep colors reflect the deep waters you swim in, daily. The downward, sinking energy does not make your heart heavy, quite the opposite.

It's where you tend to your sensitivity and inner prosperity.

BEDROOM

If you had to pick only one room to apply Feng Shui to, pick the bedroom. Well, or, the bathroom. :)

It's during your dream time that you return to the acceptance of all things.

It's when you commune with the night sky, you find your true spiritual place.

BATHTUB

If you are a Water element person without a bath tub, my guess is you are making your life harder than it has to be. :)

Make your bathroom the place.

If you can't have a tub, then make sure you have other water features in your home.

Just make sure the water is always clean and flowing.

Wallace Stevens:

"Human nature is like water. It takes the shape of its container."

Now that you have identified what your dream space says about your essence, I'd like to help you go deeper into building your entire life around your core essence.

Introducing... The School of Living Light – a program that will help you

- Identify where in your life are you not living according to your essence.
- Become a clear vessel for your innate gifts – and no longer be discouraged by the next coach or boss making you feel like you are not doing it right.
- Know when to say “no” – and when to say “yes”. Powerfully. In life, in business and in bed.
- Accept and adore every inch of YOU.
- Feel less overwhelmed – you no longer carry the world on your shoulders.
- Transform your current living space into your dream space.
- Make your home a sanctuary instead of a burden – home that brings the best out of you, every day.

There's one main goal: To remember who you are. When you do business, love and life from that place, you can not fail. You are living your purpose – the reason why you came here.
