

Zen Den

You're a minimalist at heart. You thrive in spaces that are free from clutter and distractions. Sometimes you wish you could leave all the worldly worries behind and live a simpler, quieter life, more in harmony with nature. It is these pressures of life that actually polish you, so your task is to learn to find a balance between these two worlds.

YOUR ELEMENT: Metal

Alchemist, yogi, problem-solver, strong, self-reliant, refined, esoteric, perfectionist, serene

CLOCKS

The sound of a clock symbolizes the preciseness of the Metal element person.

When the outer noise becomes too chaotic, you know how to return back to your inner rhythm and practice.

Do you know what I'm talking about?

It is this self-reflection that a Metal person finds their true spiritual power.

WHITE SPACE

The color for Metal element is white, also silver, and colorless crystal.

It's in this open clear space a Metal person relaxes.

Too much white can lead to overthinking, so break it up a little, perhaps with some earthy yellows and browns. Earth supports Metal, so make sure you feel nourished in your clarity.

GEMSTONES

Gemstones symbolize endurance, and stability.

Other items that add Metal element to your home: antique furniture, polished stones, round or oval furniture, marble, metal sculptures and jewelry.

Chinese Proverb:

Real gold is not afraid of the melting pot.

Moongate Feng Shui applies time-proven practices to sculpt your physical environment to bring about joy, abundance and harmony.

The ancient principles of Feng Shui guide us in aligning your surroundings with your true essence, thus catapulting you to a place of happiness and health.

Classical Feng Shui is more than a superficial practice of putting a crystal ball here and a happy cat there – it's about identifying the underlying energetics of your space using diverse methods that combine ancient Taoist cosmology, architecture, urban planning and mathematical sciences.
